OTHER MATTERS

PUBLIC COMMENT

Ms. Forte called for public comment and informed that they would have two minutes:

Mr. John Lauve of Holly, Michigan stated the following:

“I thought you would be talking about neighborhoods and I don’t see anything on the menu about neighborhoods, but this is a plan that I would like to see implemented—Neighbor to Neighbor. Basically, the Land Bank owns the blighted properties in the whole city. The bureaucracy does not manage it properly. They have about 25,000 structures, residential structures, and there is only one group that would be able to take care of this problem and that is the neighbors next to these homes. So as soon as this home is taken over by the Land Bank, that’s when it is most valuable. It goes downhill from that point on and it becomes worth less. There is no incentive for people to buy these places because of the condition they are in. I’ve went out and talked to people next to these neighborhoods here on Evenston Street. They would all be interested in taking over the properties next to their house and bring it up to a standard that is manageable. Because they are there all the time, they would be able to call the police, they would cut the lawns, they would keep people out of these houses, but because of some distant bureaucracy that doesn’t manage it, it just completely fails, and it is destroying the city. That’s why I created this plan and they would get a discount as an incentive so that they could immediately auction them off and give the neighbor a $10,000 credit and they would take over the property immediately, and they would secure it, take care of it and start reconditioning it in their interest.”

Mr. Forte advised Mr. Lauve that his two minutes were up and thanked him for his comments.

Ms. Joanne Warwick stated the following”

“So here is what I would hope this body and all bodies in Detroit have a deeper concern for historic preservation, and I say this because I lived in Europe where I benefited from youth fairs and you know the Europeans generally listen and make… [inaudible]…they don’t destroy their historic housing sect because it boosts tourism. We had that capacity when the very opening of this incarnation of the Land Bank when they were doing tours of homes in Boston Edison. I ran into people from other cities and they were like wow look at this architecture you know. But if you destroy it to build that boxy expensive stuff, you will turn Detroit into anywhere. There was a two-family brick flat on my block that people wanted to save and they went ahead and bulldozed it. So, this is very disappointing about that. So, as he was talking about the blight situation, right, so with the illegal nuisance abatement, Ms. Bruhn, I am pretty disappointed. I brought it up while you were on the Board there. Nobody seems to care about these kinds of Constitutional violations, but I did call Dana Nessel’s office and we will see if she cares about taking peoples’ property. Like they committed elder abuse on my neighbor, after I flagged this police officer down, shrugged his shoulders and refused to go over there. And that lady was paying her taxes and then they took her house. And I was talking to the neighbor to try to stop it and he said, Joanne, stop, every time I try to talk to her she cries. Because this lady was going into Hospice care and her daughter had had a stroke and so they had lost their daughter I had found out so they had nobody to help them, and they were paying their taxes and the City didn’t do their job and then the City came and takes their property unconstitutionally supposedly because it cares about the neighbors, but then there was water running off of that house on my house for six months after the time that I learned that the Land Bank owned it. And I told that attorney and he did nothing about it.”

Mr. Forte advised Ms. Warwick that her two minutes were up and thanked her for her comments.
